

started teaching Civil Engineering in an Australian University and also obtained field experience while working with a consulting engineers group in Melbourne, Victoria. Dr Kumar started teaching Civil Engineering in India in Former Roorkee University. Subsequently, he joined a national research institute to do building research. He has authored nearly one hundred papers on various topics concerning buildings in refereed international and national journals as well as in international and national conferences on various descriptions. Most international publications have received generous citations. His research on infinite elements and applications has been recognized. He has taught Civil Engineering in several private engineering colleges as Professor and Head of Civil Engineering Department between years 2006 and 2014. This list includes Delhi College of Engineering (Now, Delhi Technological University); JSS Academy of Technical Education, Noida; GN Institute of Technology, Greater Noida; AKG Engineering College, Jindal Nagar; Inderprastha Engineering College, Sahibabad; Noida International University, Yamuna Expressway and HR Institute of Technology, Ghaziabad. Dr. Kumar specializes in composed and systematic technical writing.